

Google Scholar: Importing References

1. Click on Scholar Preferences (beside the Search box).

A screenshot of the Google Scholar search interface. It shows a search input box, a 'Search' button, and three links: 'Advanced Scholar Search', 'Scholar Preferences', and 'Scholar Help'.

2. When the Preferences window opens, scroll down to Bibliography Manager and check the option Show links to import citations into.

3. Use the drop-down menu to select Endnote.

A screenshot of the 'Bibliography Manager' preferences window. It contains two radio buttons: 'Don't show any citation import links.' and 'Show links to import citations into'. The second option is selected. Next to it is a drop-down menu currently showing 'EndNote'.

4. Click on the Save Preferences button.
5. Now when you do a search, you will see a link Import into Endnote after each reference.
6. If you wish to save a reference to Endnote, click on the Import into Endnote link. When the File Download dialog box opens, click on Open.
7. You will be asked to select an Endnote Library, select the library, and the reference will be imported.

Only those items which have been directly imported into EndNote will show.
